LT. "DICK" DONOGHUE BACK FROM FRANCE

"England is fighting for glory, France for liberty, and the American boys for adventure," the French people told Lieut. Richard D. Donoghue, U.S.
A., transport service, when he stepped ashore from the U.S.S. Panau at Nantes, Oct. 15, and the Lowell boy, better known to his friends here as "Dick"

LIEUT. RICHARD D. DONOGHUE

Donoghue, found it so and also observed many other interesting things which he described to a Sun man this morning a short time after his arrival from New York.

Lieut. Donoghue has been in service one year. After making good as a Camp Devens rookie his officers selected him to try for a commission and being partly trained at Camp Devens and afterward sent to a military camp at Jacksonville, where he was stationed.

MORE INFLUENZA CASES REPORTED HERE

Current indications would point to a mild recrudescence of the influenza in Lowell. This morning no less than 15 new cases of the formerly epidemic disease had been reported at the office of the board of health up to noon. Yesterday—all day—11 cases were recorded, which is a far larger number than has been the case for several weeks. The new cases have rarely gone above three or four per day.

The damp weather of last week combined with the sudden cold of last night and this morning may be the cause for the recrudescence.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Vermont Couple Defaulted—Alleged Larceny Case Settled—Other Cases

When the case of Edward M. Hart and Bertha Jones, of Vermont, was called this morning in police court the pair, who were bailed out last Sunday, failed to put in an appearance and were ordered defaulted. Hart and Miss Jones were arraigned last Friday on the charge of the larceny of an automobile tire from the Boston Auto Supply Co. of this city, and through their counsel entered a plea of guilty. They were continued until today for sentence, bail being set at $200.

Peter Granawich, who, it was alleged in police court last Friday, with the assistance of another man, relieved Joseph Alex of a watch and chain and $25 in money, some through the medium of a game of cards and the balance while Alex was buried in slumber, was again present in court today. Peter's counsel stated that Alex was ready and willing to allow Peter to make a partial restitution of the amount lost and call it square.
The sentence of a year in jail which had been placed upon him was accordingly withdrawn, he in turn withdrawing the appeal which he had taken. He was ordered to pay a fine of $25 for his share in the transaction of which Alex was the victim, and also agreed to direct the officers to the residence of his partner in the evening's events who, he stated, made his home in Lawrence. The partner, Peter said, had been responsible for the larger share of the larceny.

John Bonemua was charged with a violation of the city ordinance. The officer testified that John left his machine on Central street for the better part of an hour the other evening, while defendant stated it could not have been more than 15 minutes. He was found guilty and paid a fine of $5.

Max Wolf was found guilty of driving around the Lowell boulevard about 8 o'clock on the night of Nov. 17, and failing to have his headlights on. He was assessed $10.

Arthur E. Austin and Richard Drex of Dunstable were found guilty of violating the game law, the violation consisting of setting a steel fox trap on land belonging to another person.
They were each fined $5.

GEN. LUDENDORFF HAS QUIT GERMAN SOIL

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 26.—General Ludendorff, reputed to have been long the actual directing head of Germany's military affairs, has quit German soil, according to the Frankfort Gazette. It says he has left Samsitz, Prussia, for Sweden. His titular position in the German military system was first quartermaster general.

EXPENSE ACCOUNTS
The following expense accounts of candidates at the recent city primaries have been filed at the city clerk's office in addition to those already published:
Andrew J. Welch, school committee, $43.42; James F. Lytle, school committee, $39; John J. Shea, school committee, $7.60.

When Boys Come Home From War They Will Run Country, Says Maj. Gen. Edwards

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—All New England paid tribute today to Major General Clarence R. Edwards, organizer and former commander of the 26th (Yankee) division, who recently returned from France, and has been assigned to take charge of the Northeastern department. At a series of receptions in this city, General Edwards was greeted by thousands of relatives and friends of the soldiers who made up his command. Governors of the New England states and mayors of New England cities have been invited to attend a reception to General Edwards.

Greeted By Thousands

The day began with a breakfast in honors of General and Mrs. Edwards tendered by the city of Boston through

Mayor Andrew J. Peters, with 50 prominent citizens as guests. Following breakfast, General Edwards, escorted by a troop of cavalry, visited the state house, where he was officially greeted by Governor McCall. The general then attended a public reception in the hall of Flagg at the state house, where for two hours he shook hands with thousands of persons, many of them relatives of soldiers in the 26th. Luncheons at the City and Algonquin clubs in honor of General Edwards were then attended.

State Dinner Tonight

Early this evening Governor McCall will tender General Edwards a state dinner, with New England governors as guests. Immediately following the dinner the party will go to the arena.

Ten thousand tickets have been issued for the evening reception.

Boys Will Run Country

At the mayor's breakfast, General

Edwards said that when the boys come home they would be leaders, they would run the country, and, he added,

"There is no body of men under whom

I would be prouder to live." His greatest sorrow was that he could not lead the Yankee division home. He spoke enthusiastically of universal military training.

this large system by dividing the total cost of operation and maintenance

by the mileage of the entire territory served, because the cost in a city must differ from the cost in a town and the cost in a town must differ from the cost over lines upon which there is,

by reason of the absence of population, no local travel.

This affiant further says that in the affidavit of Howard F. Fitch, heretofore filed in this matter, that the figures and statements therein set forth are not facts, but mere opinion.

Your affiant further says that for the year 1917 the returns per car hour for the Lowell division of the Bay State Street Railway were $2.75, and that the returns from January 1, to June 15

1918, per car hour on said division were $2.25 and that for the week ending August 31, 1917, the returns per car hour were $5.08 and for the week ending March 31, 1918, the return per car hour was $4.91.

That the Lowell division of said company involves a larger mileage than that included within the corporate limits of the city of Lowell and some of the line included have not the patronage or volume of travel of the lines within the city of Lowell.

The necessary date and information for a complete examination and critical analysis of the cost of maintenance and operation is wholly within the possession of the receiver of the Bay State

Street Railway Co., and the opportunity should be afforded for such analysis and examination in order to provide the court with simple knowledge to intelligently act upon the receiver's petition.

Your affiant further says that the discontinuance of the lines referred to in the receiver's petition for instructions as far as the city of Lowell is involved would attempt to destroy a substantial part of the community life of said city; that the inhabitants living on and served by the lines proposed to be discontinued would be forced to seek living quarters closer to their places of employment or on lines not involved in the proposed discontinuance; that really values in addition would be injured, if not destroyed; and that such discontinuance, if accomplished would cause such interruption of public communication in a congested community such as the city Lowell, as to cause irreparable injury.

ALEXANDER DUNCAN.

The Second Affidavit

In the United District Court for the District of Massachusetts;

The Archibald McNeill & Sons being complainant, Bay State Street Railway Co., being defendant. No. 534 in equity.

Affidavit of Alexander Duncan in support of the city of Lowell in its opposition to the discontinuance of service over lines within said city.

I, Alexander Duncan of Lowell,

Mass., inspector of claims in the law department of the city of Lowell, on oath depose and say:

That I have been for some time an inspector of claims in the law department of the city of Lowell; that prior to said employment I was a lieutenant of police for many years in the police department of said city; that I am (thoroughly acquainted with the streets and routes in the city of Lowell upon which the receiver has petitioned the court for instruction with reference to the discontinuance of service.

From my observation I believe that the returns from the patronage of the lines served are substantial.

The Bay State Street Railway Co. operates over a considerable part of eastern Massachusetts, serving congested and sparsely settled communities having long stretches of track in operation in 19 locations where local travel is nil, and that the cost of maintenance and operation must in the very nature of the service rendered in the communities covered by this company to be as varied as the sparsely settled varies from the congested centers; that it is unfair, unjust and inequitable to attempt to estimate the cost of operation and maintenance over to masters or commissioners for findings.

I, Alexander Duncan, of Lowell,

Massachusetts, on oath, depose and say that the Bay State Street Railway company operates through eastern Massachusetts over a large stretch of territory including thickly congested centers as well as sparsely settled villages.

That the cost of maintenance and operation must in the very essence and nature of the varied conditions in the territory served vary as much as the territory itself.

That it is upon information and believe my opinion that the units of costin the matter of maintenance and operation differ in congested centers like cities from the more sparsely settled communities.

That the estimate made by Howard F. Fitch of Somerville in his affidavit in support of the receiver's request for instructions is an estimate or estimation based on the total cost of operation and maintenance divided by themileage of the entire territory served, which estimate is unjust and inequitable.Upon information and belief, I depose and say that upon the Lowelldivision of the Bay State Street railway the average receipts for the year1917 per car hour were $2.75; that from January 1, to June 15th, 1918, prior to the sale of zone tickets on said division, the receipts per car hourwere $2.25; that the receipts on said Lowell division for the week ending August 31, 1917, were $5.08 per car hour, and that the receipts for theweek ending March 31, 1918, were $4.91 per car hour.The above figures have been secured from the Lowell office of the Bay State Street railway, and it is apparent that in order to intelligently secure thedata, quoting receipts and cost of service on the lines proposed to be discontinued in Lowell, an examination and analysis should be made otherthan such as has been furnished in the affidavit of Howard F. Fitch, and such analysis and examination can only be made upon records and material whol-ly within the possession of the Bay State Street Railway Co.

Reports From Bavarian Minister Confirm Evidence Already in Hands of Entente

Show How Germany and Austria Conspired to Bring About Hostilities

LONDON, Monday, Nov. 25.—(British wireless service)—Publication of official reports from the Bavarian minister at Berlin to his home government confirms evidence already in the hands of the entente that Germany and Austria conspired to bring about the war. It was for this reason that the terms of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia were made so drastic that hostilities were bound to follow.

AMERICAN MEN AND WOMEN IN FIGHTING TRIM

They Keep To The Top Notch of Health

The spirit of the times demands perfect health and nerves, and keeping them up to the highest degree of efficiency.

Men and women have learned that it does not pay to allow health, or nerves to run down and are quick to take advantage of Nature's greatest blood and nerve tonic, Phosphated Iron, the minute they feel they are slowing up.

Whatever your work may be there is no reason why it should come to a stop; work should only use the right amount of your energy. It is trying to work on your nerves and forcing yourself that wastes your strength, runs you down, gives you those restless nights, loss of appetite and indigestion, when you get up in the morning as tired as when you went to bed.

There is no sense in anyone being a victim of ill health, poor blood, over work, nerves or the blues when Phosphated Iron will afford such prompt and permanent relief.

All over the country men and women in every walk of life lay their good health, strength and nerves of iron to the use of Phosphated Iron, the red blood and nerve builder, and it will also put you on your feet, make you feel like a live one, it produces results that last, that's what counts, no "ifs" about it.

To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not take pills or tablets, insist on capsules.

MOTHERS, DO THIS—

When the Children Cough, Rub Musteric on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup or worse. And then when you're glad you have a jar of Musteric at hand to give prompt, sure relief. It does not blister.

As first aid and a certain remedy, Musteric is excellent. Thousands of mothers know it. You should keep a jar in the house, ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frost-bitten feet and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

feld, the Bavarian minister at Berlin. According to the report, the delivery of the ultimatum to Serbia was delayed until after President Poincaré and Premier Viviani of France had gone to St. Petersburg, which would make it difficult for the entente nations to arrive at an understanding and take counter measures.

Count von Lerchenfeld said: "Serbia, obviously cannot accept such conditions as will be laid down, and that as a consequence, there must be war." He declared that action on the part of Austria could not be long delayed, "for that might give Serbia, under pressure from France and Russia, an opportunity to offer satisfaction."

In a telegram to Munich from Berlin on July 31, 1914, Count von Lerchenfeld said that Sir Edward Grey's efforts to preserve peace would "certainly not succeed in arresting the course of events." Later the same day he wired information as to ultimatum to Russia and France, predicted their rejection by both nations and told of plans to hurl Germany's armies against France, which, he said, would be "overwhelmed in four weeks." He said that the morale of the French army was poor and that it was poorly armed.

On August 4, he outlined Germany's intention to violate Belgian neutrality. "The chief of the general staff has declared that even British neutrality will be paid for too dearly, if the price is respect of Belgium. An attack on France is possible only through Belgium."

FOR COMPULSORY VOTING AT ELECTIONS

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The constitutional amendment granting the legislative authority to provide for compulsory voting at elections appears to have been adopted at the recent election by a wide margin. Tabulation of returns from all but 89 cities and towns in the state, showed 109,056 votes in favor and 77,277 against.

The same cities and towns gave Channing H. Cox, republican candidate for lieutenant governor, a plurality of 23,848 over his democratic opponent, Jos. H. O'Neill. Sylvester J. McBride, socialist candidate for governor, polled 5676 votes in the same towns.

STORY OF PLOT TO STEAL BODY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN REVIVED

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The story of the plot to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln from Oak Ridge cemetery at Springfield, was revived today with the death of Elmer Washburn, former chief of police of Chicago. According to the story, suppressed on request of relatives, the attempt was made in the fall of 1879 and the plan was to convey the body to Canada from where negotiations for its return would be conducted. Mr. Washburn was head of the government secret service here at the time, and with eight federal agents was hidden in the cemetery when the four ghouls pried open the iron door of the mausoleum. Alarmed by the accidental discharge of a revolver, they fled but were arrested three days later. They were sent to prison for a year.

of a German lieutenant on one of the warships surrendered to the allies. He said today: "Now we have only a dishonorable record. No one will want to serve in a disgraced service."

Inspection of the German vessels is proceeding. They are in a deplorable state, having been apparently neglected for a long time. The German sailors present a miserable appearance, their clothes being dirty and nondescript. On the Derfflinger there is perfect discipline, but on most of the other ships the men lounge about the decks smoking.

TO ELIMINATE SLUM DISTRICTS

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Elimination of slum districts in American cities was considered today by delegates attending the seventh annual conference of the National House association in this city. "Scrapping the Slum," was the subject of an address by Ralph Adam Cram, chairman of the Boston planning board and the relation of public health to the housing question was taken up by Charles E. Hall, chief sanitary inspector of the Chicago health board. The delegates were taken on an inspection trip about this city.

COLDEST NIGHT OF FALL

Water Froze Solidly Last Night and There Was a Flurry of Snow

Last night is called the coldest night of the fall by officials of the Locks and Canals company. About a week or 10 days ago out doors water was at the freezing point and glazed over but last night, when for part of the night there was a temperature of 21, water out of doors froze solidly.

Persons leaving theatres last night between 10 and 11 noticed that they were enveloped in a slight flurry of snow. It was not more than a flurry and only enough of it fell to moisten the sidewalks. The Locks and Canals men said not enough fell so that it could be measured.

The Locks and Canals people are pleased over the amount of water on hand for the plentiful rains of the past three weeks have brought the water supply up to a point considerably above normal. The water distributors say there is water enough coming to supply all possible needs and demands of all the mills. The corporation has facilities to store only a comparatively small amount of water but it invariably helps the textile manufacturers by giving them the supply, force and power of 24 hours' worth of water to use in 16 hours.

There was a heavy frost last night and when every worker poked his nose out of doors early this morning he felt cold enough to surmise that there had been a reasonable, heavy frost. The Thanksgiving weather forecast has not of course been made yet, but present indications are that it will be clear and cold without probably snow or a storm.

GAS HOUND RECRUITING

J. Addison, who was recently in charge of the recruiting for the local Gas Hounds Regiment, today received a notification from his superior officer in Boston, J. Franklin Brown, that during the armistice no further appointments or additions will be made to the United States army, and therefore the corps is automatically disbanded.

New England's quota was 30,000 men for this service, and at the time hostilities ceased it had been very nearly filled. About 200 men had enrolled in Lowell and vicinity, and many of them express disappointment over the fact that they have lost their chance to see something of sunny France while doing their mechanical bit for Uncle Sam.

FOUND TO BE A WOMAN

"Bert" Schmidt and "Wife" Arrested—Suspected of Being German Spy

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—Suspected of being a German spy "Bert" Schmidt was arrested here last night and was found to be a woman. Upon this discovery police arrested his "wife" to whom "Bert" was married Oct. 12 by a justice of the peace.

"Bert" gave "his" age as 23 years and substantiated the assertion that "he" had offered "his" services to the government by producing a draft registration card. The woman told the police she masqueraded as a man to obtain a man's salary. Both women are natives of Hungary.

"Bert" said her name was Bertha Schmidt and the "wife" gave her name as Mary Asate. Bertha was held for the federal authorities on a charge of false registration. The "wife" was released.

This spy charge against Bertha could not be substantiated.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy, abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's stimulating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best money you ever spent.

ADMITS KILLING WOMAN

Sing Convict Exonerates Girl—Says He Murdered Mrs. Hamel

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—James Regan, a Sing convict, confessed today that it was he who killed Mrs. Helen Hamel in her boarding house on East 12th street, New York, last February, exonerating Miss Elizabeth Baksa of Freemanburg, Pa., 19 years old who has been on trial, charged with the murder. Regan declared that he had intended to kill the Pennsylvania girl when she came to his room, but after he had strangled the older woman to death, he decided to "pull" in the crime, he said. "Don't do that, that one is tough," induced him, he said, to let Miss Baksa go.

Convicted six times of burglary and larceny and sentenced last May, Regan was now serving, he told a district attorney, after 10 hours of questioning which terminated at 1 o'clock this morning, that he could not allow an innocent girl to go to the electric chair for a crime which he had committed. He refused to divulge the name of his accomplice, but said they were robbing Mrs. Hamel's house when he discovered them and began to roam. Regan killed her, he confessed, by knowing a towel around her throat to suppress her cries. Regan wrote from his cell to Judge Salsky, asserting that Miss Baksa did not commit the murder and that he could tell who did, after he had read the newspaper of the trial. He refused at first to give any details of the crime unless he was promised immunity from prosecution, but finally made a full confession, which he said would result in a court trial. It is understood that if his story, on investigation, is found to be true, he will be permitted to plead guilty of manslaughter. Pending this inquiry the Baksa trial was recessed until next Monday.

ed from July up into the month of September, he passed his examinations and was awarded the commission of a second lieutenant. On account of his business experience his superior officers decided he could best serve the government as a transport officer to which duty he was assigned. His official designation is that of a transport quartermaster. He represents the United States army while the transport is loading, on the voyage and when cargo is discharged abroad. Import papers are entrusted to his care and responsibility for the cargo being landed safely and intact is up to him.

The lieutenant cleared from New York Sept. 26 on the transport Panuco, which carried a cargo of 5,000 tons of ammunition for the use of the American army and Lieut. Donoghue believes her cargo may have been one of the last cargoes of ammunition to be landed abroad for the use of the American army.

Discharging the Cargo
The Panuco arrived at her destination, Nantes, Oct. 16. A week was required for her to discharge cargo, the work being done by French and Chinese coolie stevedores. The Frenchmen receive 15 francs a day and the Chinese, three francs a day and their living. Nantes is a river port situated 26 miles up the Loire river from the support, St. Nazaire.

Lieut. Donoghue arrived in New York last Sunday, arriving here in Lowell this morning. He is to be the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donoghue, of 4 Hazlett street while here on furlough. This morning soon after arriving here he called on his brother, John V. Donoghue, foreman of the Sun's composing room, and some time afterward he fell into the clutches of the editorial department by whom he was persuaded to describe his observations overseas.

The lieutenant in telling of the river voyage of the Panuco up the Loire to Nantes said it was one of the most picturesque and wonderful scenic trips he could imagine. The river is not wider than 200 yards and the country lying each side of it reminded the Lowell boy of the hill and mountain scenery of New Hampshire. The banks were pleasantly dotted with hamlets, farms and cottages of French peasants. The Panuco as she steamed up the river of course flew the American flag and as the people on the shores saw her steaming up, the men ran out of their houses and saluted the ship and flag by taking off their hats and the women waved aprons and kerchiefs.

It might be well for the lieutenant to have the privilege of telling some of his story in his own words. In describing the atmosphere of the French city in which the Panuco discharged her cargo of ammunition Lieut. Donoghue said:

"It seemed to me that the French people had very nearly gone wild over the coming of the American soldiers. It was the common sight to see the French peasant when he passed any member of our army take off his hat and stand at one side to let the army men pass. I can truthfully say that I have never seen much reverence paid any man in all my life as the French peasant paid to even the humblest of our American fighters.

"I cannot say that when I saw the people in this French city of Nantes they seemed in despair over the outcome of the war. They had seen thousands of our American soldiers and they evidently believed our men would come in a constant stream and in large enough numbers until the Hun was killed and they were completely satisfied it would be like this. As for food, while their food was not of the best as regards our standards here, they were being supplied enough for them to live on and most of it came from America. They seemed to believe that they would have enough to eat because there was enough in America and enough would be sent over to take care of their needs. There seemed to be the friendliest of feeling between the French people, all classes of them, and our soldiers and our sailors were taken in and treated kindly by all the French families.

Armistice News By Wireless
"Our cargo of ammunition was discharged so that we cleared Nantes for New York, Nov. 7. On Nov. 12 at a point in the ocean not very far from the Azores our wireless operator received a message that the armistice had been signed and the war was practically over. Of course at that hour only a few of the crew were on duty and none of the officers except the captain and the night watch knew of the important message which had been received. When we came to breakfast next morning there was a bulletin at each table and at the tables at sea crew saying that the armistice message had been received. Some rights later the shipper received another message as the result of which he ordered lights on at night and full speed ahead for New York, where we arrived last Saturday.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Under Southern Skies," a drama of the sunny south from the pen of Lotte Blair Parker, is being presented at the Opera House this week by the popular Emerson Co., and this exceptional stage production, which made such a wonderful run a few seasons back, has fair to again become popular. The reception given it at last night's performance is to be taken as a criterion. The audience at yesterday afternoon's presentation was fairly large, but last evening the theatre was filled to the doors.

"Under Southern Skies" is a simple story of life in the southland that carries with it a pleasant combination of comedy and pathos. The story is a simple one, an original setting and a new telling of a story as old as the hills and yet forever young and beautiful.

This drama, which contains just enough comedy to make it a play of real pleasure, has been produced here on various occasions and therefore needs no introduction, but it may be said that it has never been presented in such a pleasing manner and with so much force as is being done by the all-star players.

The cast is a very strong one in this week's presentation, and every one seems perfectly adapted to his or her part. Miss Jane Salisbury, who has starred herself in the past weeks at the theatre-going public of Lowell, through her clever and imitable handling of the part, is assigned to the role of Lelia Crofton, a southern belle who had not one suitor but many, and as usual she handles the part in a splendid manner and gives a most creditable interpretation. Julian Noa, who plays the part of Burleigh Mavor, one of the young men of the country who is in love with Lelia, again proves that when Director Glassmire chose him to take the leading male role in the company, he was acting with sound judgment. Mr. Noa's work this week is very commendable, and both he and Miss

STOPS ANY COLD IN A FEW HOURS

"Pape's Cold Compound" opens clogged nose and head and ends gripe.

Relief comes instantly.

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end gripe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit sneezing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only a few cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

Salisbury were the recipients of a volley of applause at the close of each act. The remainder of the cast is especially well assigned and all are handling their parts in a very pleasing manner. The staging effects are a compliment to Director Glassmire, who has a part in "Under Southern Skies" and proved that he is not only a wonderful director but a splendid actor as well. Others who are appearing in the cast this week are Mr. Edwin Wilkinson, Miss Evelyn Brock, Miss Marion Chester, Mr. Arthur Bachman, Miss Alice Glendower, Mr. Edwin Harris, Mr. Martin Miskell, Mr. Halley Pitt, Miss Elizabeth Ferris, Mr. George Bryant Connor and Miss Louise Gerard Huntington.

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Asahi and his company of four novelty entertainers head the vaudeville section of the current bill at the R. F. Keith's theatre and their magic offering is one of the best seen here for some time. Asahi is easily the dominating personality of the assembly and his feats of magic are bewildering to the person in the audience. Everything is done with the greatest of ease and the little performer almost startles one by his rapidity of motion.

Especially mystifying is his thumb trick. The thumb of his hands are tied together by stout, tough cord and then he goes right down into the audience and a cane is passed through his hands. To make the feat the more marvelous, an arm is passed through and all the time the binding cord is untouched.

The act is especially well set and some of the hangings are most luxurious. The garments of the performers are especially rich.

Paul Quinn, an honest-to-goodness Lowell product is on the same bill, appearing with Frank Caverly in a comedy talking and singing act, entitled "On the Y-4." The scene of the offering is the deck of a submarine and the couple deliver a lot of brand new chatter. Neither of their voices lacks enjoyment.

James Thompson, billed as "Fat" puts across a screamingly funny offering, entitled "The Camouflagers." Thompson is assisted by Al Petrie and the two splash around white paint in abundance and with abandon. The cause of the excitement centres around

A fact:

At these, the two leading hotels in the Nation's capital, Army and Navy men, statesmen, leaders of industry and prominent men from all sections of the United States may be found in greater numbers, perhaps, than at any other hotels in the country.

At the Willard, Fatima is by far the biggest-selling cigarette—which bears out, once again, what we have been saying all along about the nation-wide preference for this brand.

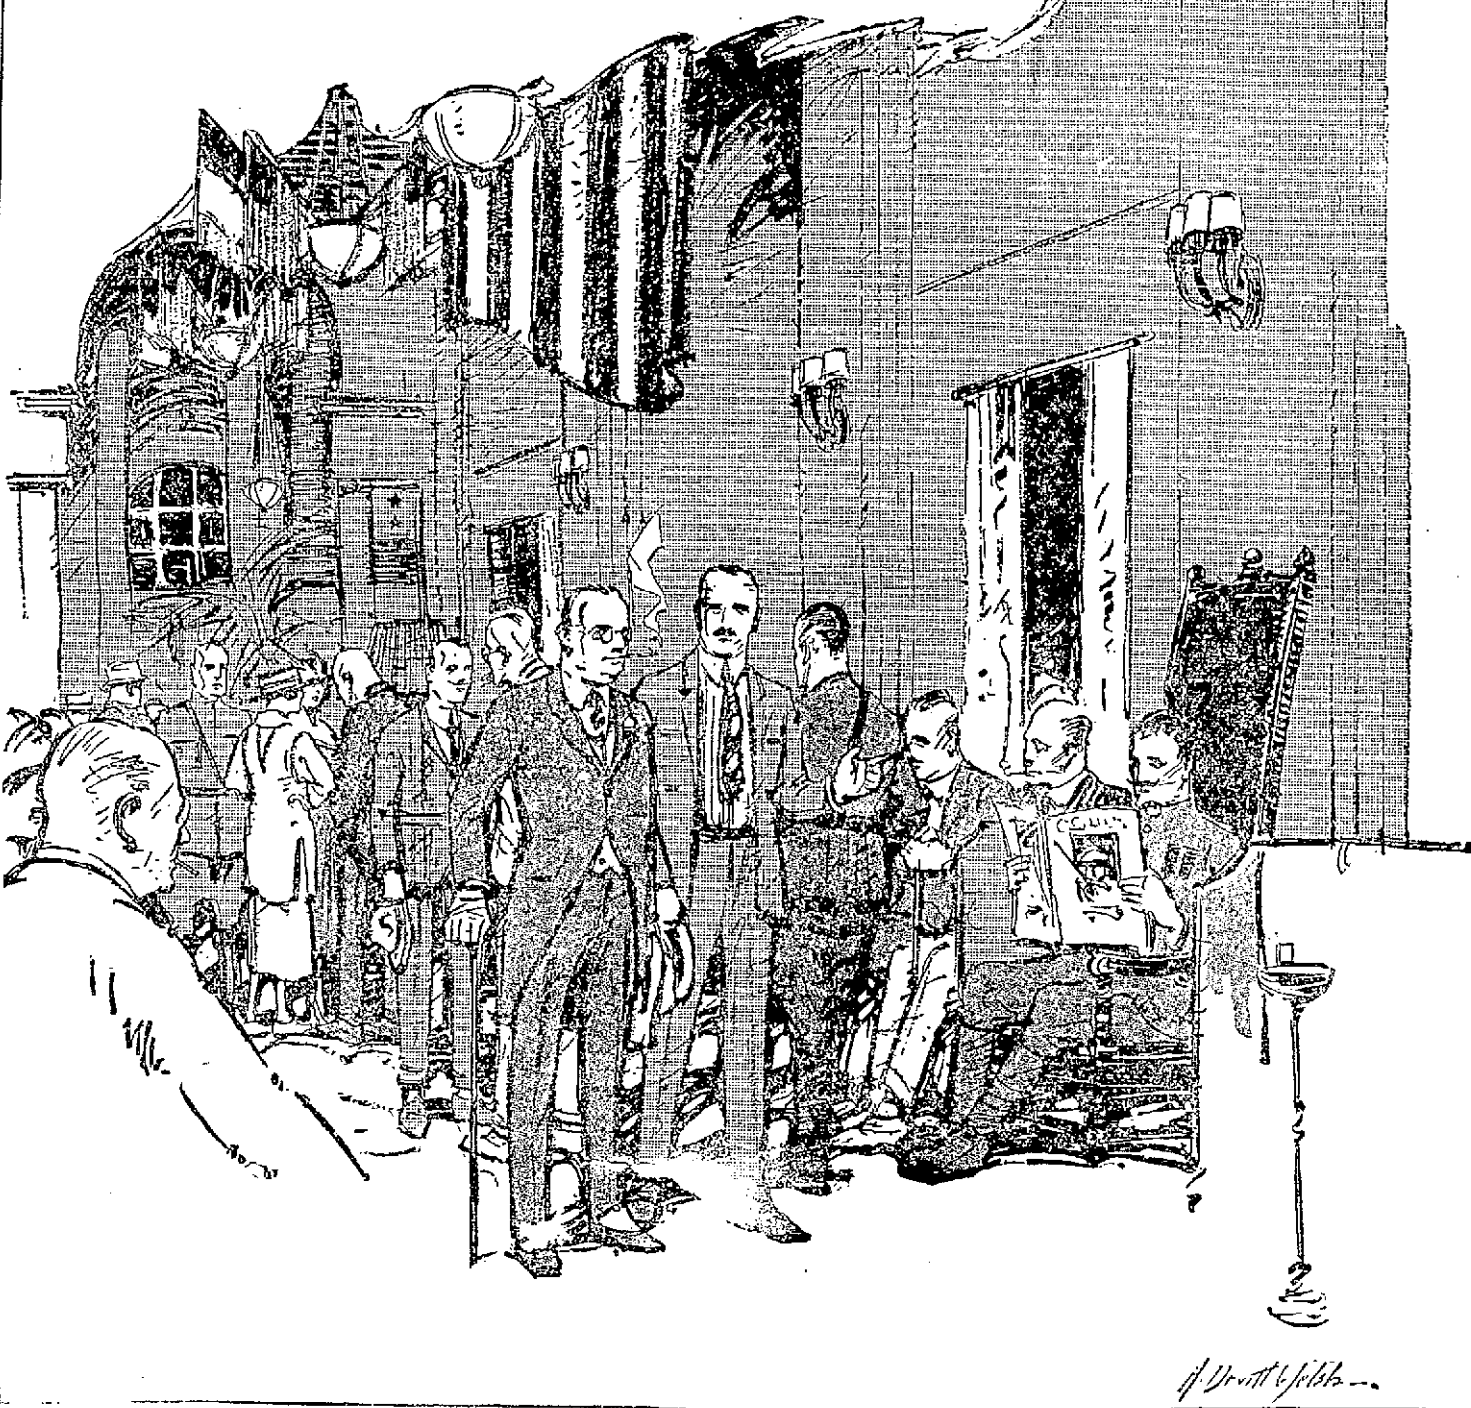

This is even further borne out by the fact that at the exclusive Shoreham only one cigarette (a 25c brand) outsells Fatima.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Success is so common that scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 3 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmitin is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial. Adv.

a discussion of the definition of "camouflaged" and vehement means have to be taken before the argument is conclusively settled.

The Gypsy Songsters are two men and two women who are above the average vaudeville quartet. They offer a varied program and their Italian and Spanish ballads are especially well done.

"Now-a-Days," an up-to-the-minute satire on current conditions, is duly given by a company of four in which Clara Throp shines as a genuine comedienne. Her partner, an excellent "celist" and Hector, the mind-reading dog, complete the vaudeville portion of the bill.

"Rebuilding Broken Lives," the first of the official Red Cross pictures to be shown in this country, is included in the moving picture part of this week's program. The scenes are most interesting, depicting the gallant and self-sacrificing mother of them all played in the world counter just ended. There is nothing more beautiful about pictures and yet one feels after viewing them that he has seen some of the most intimate phases of Red Cross work.

The Keith's news pictorial and a funny comedy complete the bill. Tickets may be obtained in advance for all remaining performances of the week. Telephone 28.

good old summer days again, and that is the treat that is being given at the Strand for the first three days of this week in the production of "Queen of the Sea," an aquatic drama, which features in the stellar role Annette Kellerman who entertains her audience with thrilling aquatic feats, which include a high dive of the most daring type. Annette is a mermaid in all that the word implies and her work both above and under water is simply marvelous.

"Queen of the Sea" is a fairy tale and like all legends of this type, it is filled with thrilling adventures that are almost superhuman, but that prove of great interest. The play is staged on a well known summer resort and has for a background the rollicking blue waves of the sea. It unfolds the story of a young woman of exceptional ability as a swimmer, who spends long days on the surf having as companions seals and mermaids. Her sole ambition is to save four lives, for she has read in a book that whoever accomplishes this feat is endowed with mortal form and an immortal soul. Boredom, master of storms, is wrecking ships, while his daughter, the sirens are drowning the hapless sailors. The queen of the sea swims to the rescue and succeeds in saving three lives. Boredom is informed that the queen of the sea is interfering with his deadly work and he succeeds in capturing her and placing her in a cave where she is doomed to die a slow death. The thrilling adventure begins when the queen of the sea, at a height of 85 feet, is better told by the picture itself. The play is one of extraordinary grandeur and sure to please every one.

The adventures of a bold reporter are plainly told in "Unexpected Place," a melodrama of the A. I. quality featuring Bert Lytell in the title role, which is second to none in its variety of plays in London. This play is a breezy one, full of vim and relays a very interesting story of how a young American reporter takes the place of an English lord, who is ill, in order to have valuable papers from the hands of German spies. The reporter plays his part well and succeeds in his scheme, and incidentally falls in love with a charming young heiress and finally wins her as his bride.

In addition to the above-mentioned clever productions, the program also contains "The Weekly," which shows interesting views of devastated Europe as well as inspiring scenes taken in this country. There is also a two-part comedy that gives Charlie Chaplin a close run as far as seemingly impossible feats are concerned. This week's soloist is Laura Mae Lampert, a singer of great ability, who enters in a delightful manner. The organ selections are also very captivating. This unequalled program will be repeated this evening and tomorrow.

WILMINGTON DEFEATED

Mitchell School Boys Too Much for High School at Football

The Mitchell school football team won its fourth straight victory on the home field yesterday by sending the strong Wilmington high school down to defeat, 18 to 6. The game was fiercely contested up to the last whistle, and although defeated, the Wilmington team proved to be a surprisingly strong opponent.

Wilcox, for Mitchell, scored one touchdown in the first quarter, but the scoring stopped there until the final period of the game. Wilmington played with a dash and vim seldom seen in a team playing its first game of the season, and after the fateful first period rallied and showed a fine brand of football.

Early in the fourth period Wilmington scored on straight football and hard line-bucking. Capt. Buck, full-back, making the touchdown.

Mitchell received the kick and worked slowly down the field for its second touchdown, taking a desperate chance on a fourth down with 15 yards to gain, by executing a beautiful forward pass, Cragin to Mitchell in which the latter gained 25 yards.

With two minutes left to play, Wilmington received the kick and worked the ball rapidly up the field to their opponents' 35-yard line. Here the Wilmington quarterback on account of lack of time, attempted a forward pass, which Cragin intercepted and ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

BRITT AND BROCK BOX
AT CLEVELAND TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—Matt Brock, the sensational Cleveland featherweight, will meet Frankie Britt of New Bedford, Mass., in a 10-round bout at Gray's armory tonight. This bout is looked upon as a near-championship mill and there is great interest in the outcome. Brock met Britt in the east a short time ago, and while the decision was against him he has always felt that he was handed a raw deal. He will go out tonight determined to wipe out that verdict, and has trained as never before for the match.

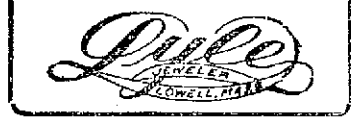

A wonderful fist record is being made by Jack Dempsey this year. In the 14 bouts in which he has engaged he has won in knockouts. The only three opponents he did not put to sleep were Carl Morris, Billy Miske and Willie Meehan. He won on a foul from Morris in six rounds, shaded Miske in 10 rounds, and lost the decision to Meehan in four rounds, a decision that was questioned by most of the spectators.

His knockout record is:

Jan. 35—Knocked out Homer Smith in one round at Racine, Wis.

Feb. 14—Knocked out Jim Flynn in

We Have Just What You Need In Watches. Come In and See Us.

one round at Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

Feb. 25—Knocked out Bill Brennan in six rounds at Milwaukee.

March 18—Knocked out Jack Smith in one round at Memphis.

July 1—Knocked out Tommy McCarthy in one round at Tulsa, Okla.

July 4—Knocked out Bob Devere in one round at Joplin, Mo.

July 27—Knocked out Fred Fulton in 23 seconds at Harrison, N. J.

Aug. 24—Knocked out Terry Keller in five rounds at Dayton.

Sept. 14—Knocked out Jack Moran in 10 seconds at Reno, Nev.

Nov. 6—Knocked out Battling Levinsky in three rounds at Philadelphia.

Is it any wonder that Joe Bonds backed out of tackling Jack at New York Saturday night?

"Finney" Boyle's great victory over Billy Woods of Manchester at Portsmouth, the other night, indicates that the Lowell boy is in fine form. Woods is a very formidable performer, and the fact that he was so completely outclassed as to have his backers throw in the towel, is certainly a great boost for the local lad. That the management of the Portsmouth club and the fans down that way were well pleased with Boyle's work was demonstrated when immediately after the bout he was matched to meet Harry Carlson.

A great many Lowell fans would like to see Owens and Russell in another bout, and Owens is certainly entitled to a chance after the treatment he was handed the other night.

There will be no bouts at the Crescent A.A. this week, but the club will reopen a week hence with a great card.

"Barnie" Doherty and his Providence Guld Bugs will be with us tonight.

The Providence team is now looked upon as one of the best in the league. Doherty, himself, one of the greatest halfbacks that ever broke up a play, is going just as fast now as he did "50 years ago." He is full of "pep" himself, and has the faculty of injecting some into his teammates. He has a fine collection of polio with him, and all are working in true form.

Last year Lowell and Providence played some of the best games seen at the local rink all season. Both were exponents of the scientific game, and they are following the same style this season. In fact the Lowell and Providence teams made few changes this year. Providence has four of the five men that played a year ago, while Lowell has three. Consequently it was an easy matter to adhere to the style of play first adopted.

It was certainly good news to hear that our old rivals, the Lawrence club, will be with us both afternoon and evening on the holiday. The original schedule called for Worcester here in the afternoon and Quincy at night but owing to the fact that Lawrence could not get a hall for the day, the league officials decided to make a change bringing fardly et als to the Spindle city.

SHOPMATES OF TOOL DEPARTMENT

MEN PUT THE SCREWS ON 'EM

The tool department of the Helme Electric Co. went down to defeat in a bowling match last night at the hands of their shopmates of the screw machine department. The match was closely contested, the winners finally going over the wire with the narrow margin of 48 pins. Crockett for the losers and Collins for the winners captured the high totals for the evening, the former also winning the honors for the highest single string.

AVERAGES IN AMERICAN
ROLLER POLO LEAGUE

The polo averages for the week contain some interesting facts. Mulligan, of Lowell, by scoring 19 goals last week was excelled only by Red Williams, who registered 18. Mulligan also gained in rushes and is now second man with 63, while Red Williams heads the procession with 79.

In total goals, Williams leads the league, with a total of 33, while Harkins is second at 32, and Higgins of Worcester, third, at 29. Thompson of Providence and Mulligan came in order after that.

Blount leads the goalies, with 47 stops and 34 misses. Then comes Carley of the Quincy team, who has kicked out 452 and missed 43. Mallory of Worcester is third in the list. Purcell is second last.

Hardy of the Lawrence team and Farrell of Quincy lead in fouls with six apiece. The figures are as follows: Rushes won by: "Red" Williams, 79; Mulligan, 63; Lincoln, 51; Kehoe, 46; Alexander, 39; Slater, 37; McCormick, 36; Hart, 31; "Kid" Williams, 4; O'Brien, 3; Thompson, 1; Harkins, 1; Goss, against Hardy, 6; Farrell, 6; Blount, 4; Donnelly, 3; O'Hearn, 2; Riley, 2; Mulligan, 2; Griffith, 2; Asquith, 2; O'Brien, 2; Alexander, 1; Mallory, 1; "Kid" Williams, 1; Higgins, 1. Goals scored by: "Red" Williams, 33; Harkins, 32; Higgins, 26; Thompson, 27; Mulligan, 26; Hart, 22; Lincoln, 20; "Kid" Williams, 20; Alexander, 18; Slater, 16; Kehoe, 14; Hardy, 7; Griffith, 5; Whiting, 4; Farrell, 3; Riley, 2; Jean, 2; McCormick, 2; O'Hearn, 2; Muirhead, 1; Carroll, 1; Donnelly, 1.

WOMAN AMBASSADOR

Mme. Schwimmer Says Hungary Needs Coal More Than Food

BERNE, Monday, Nov. 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Madame Rosika Schwimmer of the Food Peace Party fame, who has accepted the post of Hungarian ambassador to Switzerland, being the first woman to receive such an appointment, declared today to the correspondent that the food needs of Hungary were "nowhere near urgent."

She says there is some danger owing to the lack of coal. Difficulties in the aid Austro-Hungarian empire have prevented Hungary from getting its full amount of coal.

The situation in Hungary is such, she says, that the government would be willing to abide by any decision of a peace conference "no matter how unfavorable" because the government is helpless.

FAMOUS FRENCH AIRMEN

"Aces" Undecided on Future
—Priest With 28 Victories to Return to Duties

PARIS, Nov. 26.—What will become of the aviators now that the fighting has ended?

Commercial aviation doubtless will be extended greatly, but it is a question whether it will present sufficient attraction to the men who have taken up aviation for the distinction to be won in air fighting. The Aero Club of France up to the present, has issued 16,000 pilot licenses and hundreds of military pilots have not taken out the Aero club's license to which they are entitled.

Inquiry among French aces shows that the majority are too young to be worrying about the next phase of life, although some hope that civilian aviation will offer satisfactory careers.

Lieut. Rene Fouck, the ace of aces, with 75 official victories, has not yet decided what he will do, but may remain in the army. Sub-Lieut. Nungesser, with 44 victories, has decided to quit the army. He has received many offers and possibly may go to the United States.

Lieut. Lemaitre, after leading 135 bombing expeditions, will be in charge of an aerial transport undertaking. A young lieutenant, barely of age who has won 14 victories, says: "All I know is that I will not continue my law studies."

Sub-Lieut. Bourjade, with 28 successes, probably will have the least difficulty in returning to civilian life. He is a priest and will resume his clerical duties.

COMPANY C DANCE
AT STATE ARMORY

Company C, 16th Infantry, M. S. G., will hold a gala night at the state armory in Westford street, Wednesday. The night will be one of relaxation after the hard and painstaking drilling of a year and a half. The men will compete for trophies contributed for the occasion by public spirited citizens: James H. Lyle, Capt. Wm. E. Jones, surgeon of the 16th regiment, and "Charles" (Ber) MacKenzie, Officers and men from the other companies.

Try Making Your Own
Cough Remedy

You can save about $2. and have a better remedy than any ready-made kind. Really done.

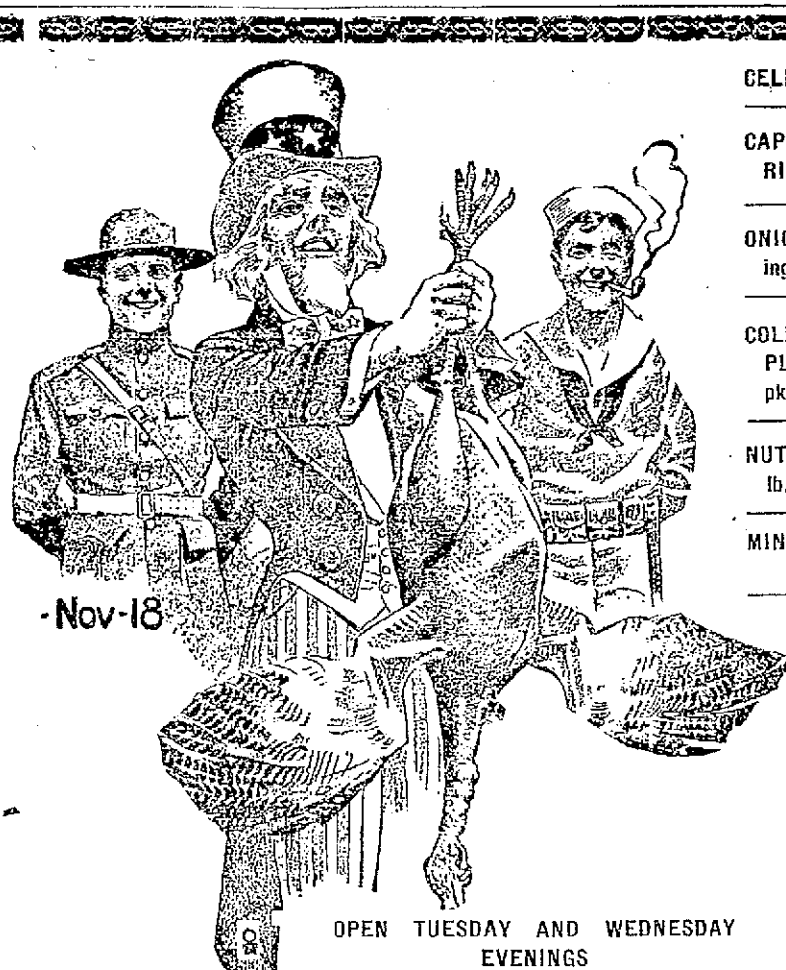

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAUNDERS' MARKET
159 GORHAM ST. COR. SUMMER ST.

will be present and the public is cordially invited to attend.

First Lieut. Loring R. Kew will bring the company onto the floor and conduct a snappy drill, which will be followed by the competitive prize drill, the main feature of the evening.

The first drill will be for the non-commissioned officers and the keenest competition is expected. This will be followed by the prize drill for privates which will also be well contested.

A tug-of-war will be next, the non-commissioned officers will be in charge and the equipment race following.

The other interesting features will be boxing exhibitions between Corporals Laskey and Moriarty and Privates Peters and Gauthier.

Captain Albert Bergeron of Co. K and Captain Royal P. White of Co. G will be the judges.

Lieut. Loring R. Kew will conduct the drills and Lieut. R. A. Brackley will conduct the other events.

The prizes will be presented by Capt. John S. Scott, commanding officer, to whom great credit should be given for the efficiency of the company, the result of much hard work. Capt. Scott has worked his way from private to captain in the state guard; he has also been many years of service in the regular army and national guard. In all he has seen nearly a quarter of a century of military life. At the close refreshments will be served to the officers and men under direction of Mess. Scott, Huerbaum, and music will be furnished by members of the company.

DIVISION 4, A.O.U.

The regular meeting of Division 4 of the A.O.U. was held last evening with a very large attendance. President Michael J. Monahan presiding. Four applications were received and two new members were inducted into the order. Nomination of officers was held for the next year and the election will be held at the next meeting. It was voted to attend mass on Thanksgiving morning with the Clan-that who invite all the organizations that meet in the A.O.U. hall to join them. This will be a memorial mass for all the dead members of the different bodies. At last night's meeting action was taken on the death of one of the members who was killed in the war, and the charter will be draped for a period of 50 days. Remarks were made by Capt. Kierce, John O'Sullivan, John Barrett and M. J. Monahan.

BARN AND CONTENTS BURNED

A fire, the origin of which is at present unknown, completely destroyed the large barn of Hammett D. Wright of Granville late last Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Wright are at present in Washington, D. C., where they were called recently by the illness of their son. The barn was located in the northern part of the village, and had been used for storing hay, several tons being stored there at the time, all of which was totally destroyed. The barn lies outside the water district and this made it impossible to save it as the fire had gained considerable headway when first discovered. The destroyed building had for years been a familiar landmark and was known to the older residents as the "Old Tyd" barn.

FORWARD

TO A WORLD, war-weary, to people chastened by sacrifices, comes at last the word so often promised, so long delayed, that its coming seems a dream from which we shall presently awaken. Yet it is true! Peace! Peace for the millions who have suffered the rigors and dangers of active service! Peace for the troubled ones at home who have worked and waited with patient fortitude! And peace, too, for those who have given their dearest ones to the cause—peace in the knowledge that these lives have not been sacrificed in vain.

With peace comes renewed prosperity. Business will return into its old channels with a new vigor and a new spirit taught us by the discipline of war. Thoughts will return to the enjoyment of the things which make for legitimate comfort and satisfaction with the sense that we have earned them. The most natural expression of this feeling is the enjoyment of good clothes. They promote cheerfulness and inspire self-confidence; they dispel sadness and reanimate our courage. They are the visible signs of our belief in the future of our country.

Let's look forward—not back; let us rejoice in our deliverance; let's be cheerful, both as to mind and dress.

CRABBING PEACE LEAGUE

If we are to reap the full benefits of the great war, we must have some international arrangement to prevent wars in the future; and yet, in discussing a subject having a purpose so benign as the league to enforce peace, our neighbor, the Courier-Citizen, indulges in its accustomed levity, misgiving and skepticism.

With an affected sense of restraint upon its own exuberance, it patronizingly warns the masses of their vain phantom chasing. This war is not "safely buried" and we are already talking about eternal peace! Thus we are taken as confidants into the private recesses of its frank soul. We are appraised of its suspicions. This war "is not by any manner of means the last."

It concedes indeed, the league is worth seeking. "Every little bit helps." But "the world has to deal with imperfect inhabitants who at times will wish to make war." We presume our neighbor feels cocky, and perhaps pleased at this dexterous but vague plumbing of human psychology. At this point our contemporary comes out in all its worldliness. It is not even convinced that the contemplated league can forestall war by methods that will provide compulsory modes of settling disputes with the alternative of economic penalties that would make war unprofitable. We are deluded today by the misleading facts before our credulous eyes. Today, the preponderating forces have had their fill with "20 to 2" against war, but who can tell but that some day the world will be divided, to use the sporting parlance of our neighbor, on the basis of "fifty-fifty" when the greatest of wars might be on the program. Not indeed that, to have recourse again to its delectable English, our neighbor would "crab the idea of a league to insure peace—so far as human conditions allow." Beyond that point, however, our neighbor will not go because "one must not suppose the present set of facts will always be paralleled in point of self interest among the various components of the league."

We must confess, we are entirely confounded as to the nature of the inspiration which brought this injunction upon the world's aspirations over the threshold of expression. At the dawn of the world's greatest hopes, when mankind has poured out its blood in behalf of an exalted ideal, when humanity is staggering in sorrow at the incalculable losses from the barbarous method of settling international problems, at the moment when we have concluded an unselfish war paid in the lives of our best blood that war may not be possible again, when the most brilliant intellects of which our planet can boast are girding themselves to make permanent the peace that war has won, our neighbor with crass equanimity blasts all our hopes and tells us that we, imperfect mortals, "will often wish to make war" and that, in consequence, our efforts to form a peace league are doomed. We are afraid our friends are functioning upon a discarded psychology inspired perhaps by a bleak skepticism which likes to parade under the guise of foresight and candor. There are doubtless many bullies walking upon our streets who would like to make war upon their neighbors, but we manage by law to restrain their superabundant spirits and their neighbors are left unharmed. One thousand years ago, our contemporary's predecessors said they did not want to "crab" the idea of law and order but men would fight and have private wars. Yet, by the established processes of law enforcement, their tendencies to fight are restrained so that the public peace is preserved. What is here accomplished in a state, the league of peace would accomplish among the society of states—the nations of the world now more nearly an international federation than ever before.

Our neighbor has committed a grave breach of taste and has named its trust as an organ of popular expression and as a disseminator of constructive ideas. Highly and with no mean measure of earnest, it attempts to blast the hopes of our age and take away from us at the stroke of the pen, as it were, the prospects of universal peace. Let that be the outcome and our sons have died in vain, died many of them with a conviction they were giving peace to others, and a truce between wars, but peace, eternal peace. According to our neighbor, all our allies have poured forth their blood just to win the fight, a sort of super-sporting proposition, not to promote a stable and a better order of things or to establish world peace upon an enduring basis.

We will hitch our wagon to a star more bright. We will lean somewhat to the truth that nothing is settled until settled right and for all time. If our neighbor is not attempting to "crab" the idea of a league to insure peace, what is it doing? It is just such pessimistic opinions that keep the growth and progress of mankind down to the level of cynicism and hopelessness. It diffuses an atmosphere of doubt that chills enthusiasm and prevents accomplishment of what is easily practical and possible under the right inspiration.

The league to insure peace is the beacon light which has inspired a world in the shadow of the valley of death. The precious youth of liberty-loving peoples from every corner of the earth surrendered joyfully their very lives that war may not be possible again; and now, our neighbor tells us elegantly that it does not want to "crab" the idea of the peace league. But it scoffs and doubts. The league is already a thing in being. It is alive in the hearts of millions of brave men who are returning from the borders, where the opposition to permanent peace was irrevocably destroyed. It is alive among the hundreds of millions of simple folks throughout the world who yearn for it in their incongruous devotion to the noblest ideals. It is being formulated by the great statesmen of the world. That is essentially why our great president is leaving our shores—to see that the idea is not "crabbed," and in its accomplishment its authors will leave a world eternally grateful.

Times change. Never in recorded history was the opportunity so inviting, the call so commanding and the duty so imperative as today for establishing an arrangement to render it impossible for men "often to have war." And the imperishable glory of their achievement will light mankind to progress unbounded, marking a new era, greater than any other single step onward in human history since the dawn of civilization.

KAISER A HOARDER

The all absorbing love which the German kaiser bore for his people was illustrated in a forcible way when it was discovered that his imperial palaces were packed with provisions of all kinds, while his people in Berlin and other cities of the empire were starving. This is but an example of the "sacrifices" that autocrats make for their people. The German people can draw their conclusions as to the sincerity of the kaiser's alleged regard for "his people." While they were living on starvation rations, the kaiser was indulging in all the luxuries of peace times and had drawn away from the public supply of food, enough to serve him for several years. In all probability, the other autocrats who have retired with the kaiser were equally fortified against the dangers of a food shortage despite the great sufferings of the people, not only due to their sacrifices in the war, but to the shortage of food that had reached famine conditions as much as two years ago. In the eyes of the kaiser his people were mere cattle, fit only to be used as instruments to advance his ambition.

The government of the United States has announced that it will control all the wireless plants in the country. The experience with amateur plants and some conducted by enemy aliens during the war, offered ample proof of the necessity and wisdom of such a step. For self-protection alone, the government should own or control all the wireless plants in the country, at least until such time as the system can be made applicable to commercial purposes and render unnecessary the ordinary telephone and telegraph wires. There is no ground for the imputation of state socialism in this step.

Well, well, if you haven't received a new letter from your Buddy in France, or in Germany perhaps, where he may be by the time this is read, you are out of luck indeed. What moves us to thus extend commiseration is the fact that the French steamship Rochambeau arrived in New York Sunday and among her other pieces of precious freight, her mail rooms had one million letters from American soldiers overseas addressed to their relatives in the United States.

Massachusetts never had such good luck with her farm and war garden squashes as she has had this past summer. Don't let the surplus spoil. It is still patriotic and good form to can all the surplus food you are able. Glass preserving cans as regard their price, are within the reach of all. Even the 10 cent stores sell them, perhaps not of the best quality but of a quality good enough for one season's canning. It is not yet too late to make a start.

Our gas rate decreases Jan. 1st to a figure which, while a reduction, is probably not as low as it could be and still pay Lowell Gas Light company stockholders a fair return on stocks they bought for $100 and which are now worth nearly $300. But as the price of gas goes down, the coal price is to go up, only several weeks sooner. Now can there not be a situation sometime when both coal and gas will drop the price at the same time?

We are not surprised to learn that the good Society of Friends, the Quakers in other words, are still at their work of mercy helping returning Belgian refugees take up their old life again in crumpled homes. History will not include the peace loving Quakers with ordinary pacifists and conscientious objectors. They aided the wounded under fire and were almost as valuable as the men in the trenches.

SEEN AND HEARD

Now, keep those home fires burning!

Shop early habit arouses no antagonisms among store clerks.

Safe bet: Few schoolboys are worrying about the teacher's shorage.

Women who don't like making jams on street cars and in stores are going to shop early this Christmas season.

Senator Watson thinks Wilson took over the ocean cables so the peace conference would be deprived of hearing the words of wisdom spoken in congress. Language cannot describe the intense avidity with which allied statesmen at the peace conference would hang upon every phrase uttered by congressmen.

Reason Enough

An extremely wealthy man has occasion frequently to make use of taxis, and he always gives the chauffeurs the legal fare and no more.

Once, when he handed the man the fare, the latter looked it over and said:

"Excuse me, sir, but your son always gives me twice as much as this."

"I don't doubt it," growled the old man; he has a rich father."—Windsor Magazine.

Came For Camphor

A lad went into a pharmacy recently.

"I forgot what my mother wants," said he.

"Was it a sedlitz powder?" asked the clerk.

The boy shook his head. Then the pharmacist mentioned various things, but not the right one. "Well," said he, "go home and tell your mother you forgot what you came for."

"That's it," yelled the kid. "Camphor. I want 10 cents' worth."

Tact of President Wilson

"There's nobody," said a Washington lobbyist, "who can get rid of an importunate caller so quickly and at the same time so smoothly as the president."

"Once at a reception, a man held up the long line of guests waiting to shake the president's hand while he recounted at great length some tedious yarn or other."

"The president stood about four minutes of this. Then he gave a start. 'That, my dear sir, is my monophonic yawn,' he said.—Worcester Telegram.

Mrs. Manager was about to start on an outing with her family.

"Let me see. Here's the lunch basket, here's the field glasses, and here's the bundle of umbrellas. I think we've got everything," said she. "Children, we haven't forgotten anything, have we?"

"Shall I get in now, my dear?" said

Prisoner Well Guarded

His Honor, the judge of the Lincoln County, Me., municipal court, held court recently for the disposition of the terror of the North Village, Jefferson, one Ned Harlow, who was disposed of for 120 days in jail for assault and battery and intoxication. But the point is, the court found the prisoner in the said Harlow of Sheriff Bond, a strapping fellow of 270 pounds, and First Lieutenant Estelle Jones, who weighs a pound or so more. The prisoner was thus reasonably sure, after capture, of appearance in court.—Kennebec Journal.

Wildcats Kill Deer

Dining at our hotel yesterday, we noticed on the bottom of the very excellent 10 cent lunch menu, the following: "R. B. Manning's special pot of venison aux Champignons." We knew that the venison came from Maine and, regardless of where the aux champignons claimed its origin, we decided to test the combination despite the great strain on our purse. It was roast stuffed venison and coming from a country where deer, caribou and moose hold sway, we feel qualified to pass on venison, good or bad, and we proclaim the venison in question the best ever. After discussing the delicious dish, browned to a turn, we encountered the man responsible for its appearance on the table, Mr. Robert R. Manning. We had partaken of a deer shot by him near Green Lake, Me., and he told us that deer have not been very plentiful in Maine this year. Hunters and others told him that the scarcity of deer was due to the presence in the backwoods of many wildcats, better known as lynx. They hide in trees and pounce upon the deer as they pass. Hunters say they have found the carcasses of many deer this season and the number of lynx shot is greatly greater than for any single season for years.

Profit and Pay

(Copyright, 1918, N.E.A.) Said Jeremy Judd: "Well, I'm off it. No sentiment stuff from today. When I sell it's how much can I profit? When I buy, it's how little to pay."

So he set out to grab every dollar. Not asking its wish or consent. And he made the red Indian "holier" before he surrendered a cent.

"Two no time for loving or hating." He said, "or the copybook rot. In the end, a man's judged by his calling."

And the question is "What has he got?"

And no one appeared to confute him. For success has a sort of a charm, and many there were to salute him. And many pump-handled his arm.

But Jeremy Judd wasn't happy. He was furtive of soul and of eye. His tongue and his temper grew snappy.

And he pondered the wherefore and why.

And he said, as he worried the reason. "I have houses and motors and I can buy entry joy in its season." From a yacht to an opera box.

Then, one day, looking out from his mansion.

He saw a man leading a burro; A man who believed in expansion. And his method appeared to be thorough.

But, just as he got the beast hidden beneath his extravagant

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

My friend, John O'Rourke, secretary of the board of trade, tells me a pretty good story that one of the speakers at the recent commercial secretaries' convention in Rochester told. It had to do with a second lieutenant in the American forces overseas who was in the thick of much of the heavy fighting last July at Chateau-Thierry. His company was bearing a goodly share of the brunt of that memorable occasion and as a result lost both its captain and first lieutenant. The second lieutenant, of course, took command of the company and later promoted to captain. Later it devolved upon him to send the sad news of the former captain's death to his wife and he did it in his most tender manner. The lady in question wrote back to the new captain and thanked him for his thoughtful consolation. Gradually letters began to flow back and forth with increasing momentum until a deep friendship had sprung up. Then came the happy news that the young captain was to return to this country and immediately he went to the home of his former captain's wife and met her face to face. Their meeting strengthened their friendship and in a short while their engagement was announced. The nuptial ceremony followed, of course, and thus one lady had the honor of being the wife of two captains of one company of the American Expeditionary Forces that had done its bit "over there." Mr. O'Rourke said that some of the more caustic delegates at the convention remarked that the lady must have been in love with the office rather than its incumbents.

In the window of the Merrimack Clothing company a collection of souvenirs from the war-swept country of France has evoked more than usual observation and attention. The souvenirs have been sent to Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, the well known contractor, by his son, First Class Private Patrick J. O'Hearn, now attached to the 9th Division overseas, and also by a young soldier whom Mr. O'Hearn entertained at dinner last Thanksgiving day. Among the souvenirs, the helmet of a dead German soldier stands out prominently. Then there is the inevitable gas mask, a vase made from the remnants of a shell which has all the earmarks of being hammered either by the artist or by the soldier and a real, honest-to-goodness harmonica showing that even though the German hordes are now broken to smithereens, some luckless soldier of the defunct German empire endeavored to provide a little harmony at some time or other but failed.

It has been called to my attention that all persons who feel they can afford to do so, should replace what in most cases is a torn, discolored and worn out looking flag at the present time, with a new and brightly looking American flag, both for the fact that the better the flag the better appearance it gives the home where it is displayed and then, too, the forehanded man or woman will want to have as fine a flag as possible on hand and ready to display when the Lowell boys from overseas get back here, an event which may happen sooner than many of us expect. In a walk about the city Sunday I noticed several homes displayed the flag but, truth to tell, in most cases the flag looked as if it had given the best service already that it could give. I am aware that flags are somewhat scarce at the present time and no doubt they cost more than in the previous experience of most flag buyers but this is a time when most people want to honor the flag in every possible way.

Formerly casket lacings, that meek and humble but necessary adjunct of a lady's wardrobe, used to cost only a nickel a pair. Now milady has to part with 25 cents in order to procure the very same article. It is hardly to be expected that menfolk will be very much interested in this news except as it bears upon the high cost of living.

If the lady who presides over the table in your home announces with pardonable pride, day after tomorrow that the piece de resistance of her holiday menu is what she calls "victory pudding," and you recognize it as an old friend of a bygone day, don't let on. The lady is entitled to the fruits of victory as well as the rest of us.

WORK OF SMITH COLLEGE UNIT IN FRANCE

The Lowell College club was afforded the opportunity yesterday afternoon of hearing an unusually interesting talk on personal experiences and the work done by the Smith college unit in France, by Miss Alice Leavens, Smith, 1903.

The speaker gave an account of the enthusiastic and cordial welcome from our soldiers extended to these American women, who had been serving with them since the month of March. Many times a wounded man in a French hospital would even let go the last straw of hope, which often marks the turning point in a sick man's career, simply because he was unable to make himself understood.

The First Division, "Pershing's Own," the old regular army built up to war strength, made a wonderful record, and their splendid fighting qualities could not have been equalled, was the comment of Miss Leavens, whose remarks were based on praises given this division by a French officer, who flew over "Cantigny" in an airplane, after the American attack.

The work of the Smith college unit in France, outside of what they have done for the American soldiers, was the work of emergency reconstruction. The people had lived for two and a half years under German domination, and under such conditions there is a constant undercurrent of fear. Whole villages of French people were going to pieces nervously. At night, to save themselves from bombs, they have slept in quarries, where it is so damp as to be an excellent place for growing mushrooms, and their health has suffered, naturally. One of the most demoralizing things was the deportation of all the useful people, leaving only those who needed constant care. Then they would be ordered to go into another village and to stay there 10 days. On returning to their own village they would find it utterly destroyed.

Miss Leavens emphasized the mission of this college unit, in endeavoring to make life more bearable for the people in that country, during the times of nervous strain and anxiety lest they should be forced from one place to another at a moment's notice, according to the movements of the Hun. When the unit was obliged to leave their station, with the refugees, they had to "Having suffered from nervous indigestion for several years, I find after using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that I am as well as I ever was and can now eat anything without fear of consequences." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mrs. John K. Moore, 516 No. 27th St., Richmond, Va.)

Indigestion and constipation are conditions closely related and the cause of much suffering. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild, pleasantly effective laxative; it quickly relieves the intestinal congestion that retards digestion and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years.

leave behind much of their material, but there was no regret, for the comfort brought to the people had amply repaid them for their time and money.

The mental suffering experienced by the French women over their loved ones being deported into Germany was much greater than that felt for the fighting man, and the speaker was of the opinion that it would take many years before they will have recovered from the terrible worry.

After the college unit had begun to consider the question of whether or not they should leave that country, the matter was taken entirely out of their hands by the boches. It was not exactly a surprise when they awoke one morning and heard a terrible noise. The natives came around and looked at the college girls to see how they were taking it. The unit was waiting for the English high command to tell them what to do, knowing that they would not want them to clog the roads. But the evacuation came very quickly. English officers came and asked for the use of the park occupied by the unit, for the reorganization of their artillery section. "And so those splendid Englishmen came. Our boys have pluck, and we are just proud of them; but the pluck of the Englishmen is of a different kind. What they are afraid of is that their talking about it will make them lose their morale. We feel that that night, up to 2 o'clock in the morning, and after the last man had been fed we went to bed; but we only slept about two hours. At 4 o'clock the English came and told us that we really must go, so we got out. The hens went with us. One of the girls was riding very close to the hens, and she did not know it; and so, when at cockcrow a rooster made his presence known close to her ear, it frightened her so that she nearly fell off the automobile."

The hardships endured by the refugees could never be realized as fully as they are by those who have actually been eye-witnesses. Miss Leavens sums it up by saying that our soldiers would prefer many times over, to go "over the top," than to mingle with these poor French peasants and refugees. It is the intention of many of these girls to return to those ravaged and wrecked villages in France, after the straits is over, in an endeavor not only to alleviate suffering, but to help the people reconstruct their lives.

England, Miss Leavens said, has suffered more in the way of resources, than France. She can do nothing. Who is going to do it? The country that has suffered least in the war and has the greatest resources; and that is undoubtedly America. The world owes a tremendous debt to those poor people, and it is America's opportunity as well as her duty, to help them. Miss Leavens has some interesting relics which were shown, including a boche pistol, pieces of bombs and some clever French posters.

HOW A SALESMAN SUFFERED

R. J. Porter, Sterling, Col., writes: "For six months I suffered with a painful weak back. As a traveling salesman I had to stoop frequently to pick up my grips, which I grew to dread as the pain when I straightened up was awful. Numerous remedies failed to reach my case. I was induced to try Foley Kidney Pills. Relief was immediate. Say, they are great! Any one afflicted as I was should try a bottle or two of Foley Kidney Pills. Good for pain in the back, rheumatic pains, aching joints, sore muscles. Burkinshaw's Drug Co., 418 Middlesex St., Moody's, 301 Central St.—Adv."

UNIFORM MEN BEAT UP REDS

U. S. Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Break Up Gathering of New York Socialists

Storm Madison Sq. Garden, Where Bolshevik Doctrines Were Expounded

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Hundreds of soldiers, sailors and marines broke through a cordon of police surrounding Madison Square Garden last night and attacked international socialists who had attended a mass meeting at which Bolshevik doctrines were expounded. The men and women leaving the hall broke and fled as the men in uniform charged past the police, but were pursued into the side streets in all directions. The attack on the socialists came at the close of a meeting which threatened from the moment it began, to break into a riot. It was called ostensibly to protest against the execution of Thomas J. Mooney, but Scott Nearing, who presided, and the other speakers devoted most of their attention into pleas for the release of "political offenders."

Red Flag Arrests

Several men and women were arrested for displaying red flags smuggled into the garden in defiance of an edict of Mayor Hylan. Large numbers of men in uniform entered the building before the doors were locked with the avowed determination of preventing attacks upon the government. They were restrained with difficulty by police and detectives from making an assault on the stage. Scores of fist fights were interrupted in the opening round by officers.

Impromptu Meeting

Madison Square was the rallying point for the military. They quickly staged an impromptu mass meeting at which speakers denounced the Bolsheviks. They were cheered not only by the men in uniform but by civilian sympathizers. When some one called upon "Loyal Americans" to the first attack, the soldiers and sailors resumed their meeting and awaited the arrival of reinforcements. Probably 1000 men of both branches of the service had assembled by the time the meeting adjourned.

The opening of the doors of the garden was the signal for a second charge which the police were unable to repel. The soldiers and sailors fought their way past swinging nightsticks and attacked the socialists who had packed the big building.

Women Scat

Almost instantly the square was filled with yelling, running, fighting men. The screams of women, most of them wearing red roses or carnations in lieu of the forbidden flags, rose above the din as they clawed and scratched the soldiers and sailors who were pummeling the male socialists.

Mounted police, re-enforced by automobile loads of reserves, rushed from every station house within a radius of miles, struggled valiantly to clear the square, but made little progress. Soldiers and sailors, thoroughly angered by what they considered an insidious attack on the flag they had sworn to defend, paid little attention to blows from nightsticks. They were bent on getting revenge from the internationalists, and many of them succeeded.

The square was cleared of milling men only when socialists by one and twos and in groups broke and fled. The scrimmage in the park then was transferring on a smaller scale into every neighboring street.

Groups of socialists soon were running madly along Fifth Avenue a half-mile north and south of Twenty-sixth street, pursued by shouting uniformed men. Most of them were hatless and coatless, having lost the major part of their garments in the scuffle.

When they went to the meeting the men, almost without exception, wore red neckties because the red flags were under the official ban. These red ties were the special mark of the soldiers and sailors. After the battle they were cherished souvenirs.

Anything that roused the wrath of the military men and they promptly pursued it. Hundreds of the socialists were badly beaten, but so far as could be learned none was seriously hurt.

United States Marshal McCarthy and police inspectors were inclined to blame the uniformed men for the trouble. They declared the meeting would have proceeded peacefully enough, in spite of the more or less explosive speeches, had it not been for the soldiers and sailors. They were the ones who started the attack, the officials asserted.

The police had the situation well in hand within half an hour after the close of the meeting and the streets had been cleared except for stragglers. There were no more socialists to be seen.

DEVENS ATHLETIC CLUB

Soldier Boys to Hold Concert and Dance at Associate Hall, Friday Night

Lowell military talent will be prominent in a concert and dance to be given in Associate hall next Friday evening, Nov. 29, under the auspices of the Camp Devens Athletic club of Camp Devens. There are 60 Lowell boys in the utilities department at the campment and this fact alone should assure a splendid outturning of local friends and relatives of the men.

Major Edward W. Briggs, the officer in command of the construction and utilities departments at Camp Devens, has designated Friday evening as a holiday for the majority of his command and he and his commissioned assistants are anxious that the concert and dance be made a social and financial success.

The committee in charge, which includes a number of Lowell boys, is made up of the following: Sergt. 1st Class, Louis E. Ross, chairman; Sergt. 1st Class, Frederick Cotter, Sergt. McKinnon, Corp. James (Jazz) O'Connor, Corp. Oulson, Privates Wm. Foye, Paul Delbert, George O'Connor and Alfred Lambert.

Corp. George O'Connor has arranged for a concert in which the best professional talent in camp will be seen and heard. Among the best known artists who will positively appear are the Camp Devens quartet, comprising Sergt. William Coughlin, Joe "Champ" McDonald, Sergts. Costello and Barry, a combination of harmonious voices that have been heard in most of the principal cities of New England, in furthering the Red Cross Liberty loan and United War Work drives. Antonio DiMambro, one of the country's finest accordion players, will be heard, accompanied by Sergt. Glennon, both men members of the construction division. There are also several other good numbers on the program. James ("Roundy") Roano, "Lowell's favorite tenor," has a batch of new songs with which to delight his many Lowell friends. Corp. O'Connor, in connection with the "Six Chordal Minstrels," has arranged a minstrel front that brought first prize at the Hartford Opera House, an act that is found to make many friends.

Miner and Doyle's orchestra has been engaged, an added attraction which will go a long way in providing a crowded house.

Lieut. James H. Reynolds and Lieut. Francis Cunningham, Lowell products, head the reception committee which will be on hand early to welcome many

LOCAL LABOR UNIONS HOLD MEETINGS

President Fred Mosley presided over the regular meeting of the members of the Moulders' union, which was held last evening at 32 Middle street. Important communications received from general headquarters were read and routine business was transacted.

Building Trades Council

A regular meeting of the Building Trades council was held last evening in Odd Fellows hall, Middlesex street with President James Walwood in the chair. The credentials from two delegates from the Steamfitters' union were received and approved and routine business was transacted.

Loomfixers' Union

A partial report of the delegates of the Loomfixers' union, who attended the annual convention of the U.T.W. of America in New York last week was received at the regular meeting of the union last evening and it was announced that the remainder of the report will be given at the next meeting of the organization. The meeting was presided by Ernest Arsenault and routine business was transacted.

FORMING STUDY CLASS

As was announced at the lecture at Middlesex hall, Friday, November 23, a study class is to be formed for the benefit of those interested in protecting young people.

As Miss Shilton illustrated, there are serious dangers in every city and there is great need of personal service. To be effective, this service must be given by people familiar with conditions and resources.

This course of lectures is open to all who will in the future want to be called upon for voluntary service in the interest of young people and who may wish to work toward accepting a regular position in this line of endeavor, and all others who are seriously interested in the subjects under discussion. After each talk there will be an opportunity for discussion and presentation of problems.

All who wish to attend the course are invited to a preliminary meeting on Tuesday, November 26th, at the rooms of the International Institute at 25 Palmer street, at 7.45, to plan the time and dates of these lectures.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

A large attendance was present at Colonial hall last evening to hear John C. Lathrop, C.S.B., member of the board of lecturership of the mother church, the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, who gave an interesting account of the growth of Christian Science, expounding its principles and discussing the topic, "Salvation Through Spiritual Sense."

LOYAL INTEGRITY LODGE

A regular meeting of Loyal Integrity lodge, 6630, I.O.O.F., M.U., was held last evening in Odd Fellows hall, Middlesex street with N.G. Claude Talsey in the chair. One new member was elected and four applications for membership were received. The class initiation to be held Dec. 9 was discussed at length and it was stated that high dignitaries of the order from Boston will be present.

Our American Workmen

A country worth fighting for is worth working for! The man who may be driving rivets in a ship or a tank is backing up the boys at the front. It is not on the battlefields alone that this war is being fought. It is waged behind the lines, in the factory, in the workshop, on the farm and in the home as truly as in the trenches. The pale-checked woman at home as well as the workman in the shop feels that lack of "snap" and energy which red blood should bring. Perhaps he or she has had an attack of the influenza, in consequence the blood lacks tone. Perhaps the red-blood corpuscles are lacking. Build up the blood with an iron-ionic tablet, called "Ironic," first discovered and made by Dr. Pierce. After taking this tonic tablet you have good red blood and an active liver, and you can face the enemy successfully—whether it is the germs of grip, a common cold or spring fever. America needs its strong men, and American men need to be strong. Then there is that blood-maker and herbal tonic which has borne the recommendations of many thousands of people during the past fifty years. It is called Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and can be had in tablet form at almost all drug stores at 60 cents a vial. It has the right combination of herbal extracts to bring "pep," vim, vitality and vigor to you. When you have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets you will feel the red blood coursing through veins and arteries, and you will be surprised to find how easy it is to tackle every "job," every undertaking calling for responsibility or efficiency. The man who takes this tonic tablet has iron nerves for hardships, and an interest in "the drive" grips him. Be sure and ask for Dr. Pierce's.

LOWELL ROLL OF HONOR

—IN THE— City Directory

The Roll of Honor carried in the Lowell Directory of 1918 will be enlarged to include those who have gone into war service since that Roll was compiled.

For patriotic and historical reasons this list should be complete. It is appropriate it should be bound into the City Directory, which is the annual record of the city's life, where it may always be found and consulted by present and future generations. The publishers request your co-operation to this end.

Pastors of churches, officers of lodges, and corporations and employers, are asked to send in their individual Rolls of Honor, and relatives and friends of those in the service are requested to send in the names of such as they may know of. The publishers are especially eager to receive such names as would not be found on local lists, such as the local draft board lists and recruiting station lists. This would include the names of such as have enlisted in the Canadian and British armies, or in other armies, in the various college units, in the Red Cross, in Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. work, etc.

Your help in compiling this information is a duty to the absent and is for the honor of Lowell. Please be prompt.

Her Relatives Died of Consumption

Mabel Barnett Tells How She Conquered Her Cough and Regained Her Strength

"My mother, father and brother died of consumption. They gradually grew more and more ill until I had two within three days. For nine months I had a terrible cough, but I did not know what to do. I could not sleep, I had no appetite, everything I ate was thrown up. I have a little boy three years old, and I wanted to get well for his sake, but I grew so despondent I felt like taking poison."

"One day I decided to try Milks Emulsion. I didn't tell my husband, but he soon noticed a big change in me. The first bottle brought back my appetite. After taking two bottles my cough almost left me. Now I have color in my face and have lost that scared, haggard look. I do not even wash and ironing and all my housework and enjoy it. I sleep now like a baby. I had given up, but now to think I can do my own work, go to church and feel so well, makes me very happy."

When this sort of a case is brought through successfully, who shall say what is hopeless? This much is certain, Milks Emulsion costs nothing to try. It is sure to be of some help, and it may do what seems impossible, as it has for others. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down, nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. It works like magic on coughs and colds.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion on this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Fred Howard, Adv.

—and you don't know how delicious potato salad can be, until you've tried it with this Mazola Dressing

ANY woman has added to her reputation for making salad dressings—since she began using Mazola.

Mazola gives a delicious tang impossible to secure with any other oil. And since it comes from an edible source—the kernel of golden corn—you can be sure of its purity.

Scientific methods of extracting this oil from the corn help to insure uniformity—and the good cook knows how important this is in preparing salad dressings. Mazola is also wonderful for shortening pie crust, cakes and pastries; or deep frying doughnuts and French Fried Potatoes; and for sautéing.

Can be used over and over to the very last drop, as it never carries the odor or flavor of one food to another.

Get Mazola from your grocer in pint, quart or gallon tins. Large sizes most economical.

Also ask for the Mazola Book of Recipes or write us direct—free on request.

AMERICANS MARCH ON

Push Into Germany—Lt. Col.

Roosevelt in Room Formerly Used by Hindenburg

WITH THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Sunday, Nov. 24. (By the Associated Press).—American forces are standing on the west side of the Moselle river tonight. The extreme left of the line is at the frontier village of Vallendorf, on the Sauer river. From this point, it follows the Sauer to its confluence with the Moselle and extends along the latter river as far south as Garsch.

The Third Division was the first to reach the German frontier, having established headquarters overlooking Germany today. This division will remain along the line near Remich, on the southeastern frontier of Luxembourg until the army of occupation moves ahead into Germany. Among the other units on the American front is the 26th Infantry of the First Division, which has its headquarters in the village of Ehnen.

Lieut.-Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is occupying a room formerly occupied by Maj. Von Hindenburg, son of the field marshal. His room overlooks the Moselle and the bluffs of the German side, which are devoted to the raising of grapes.

NO MORE LIGHTLESS NIGHTS HERE.

The Lowell fuel committee announced today that until further notice the "lightless nights" order is set aside and all the restrictions with respect to the use of light for street lighting, advertising signs, building ornamentation, store window display and other purposes are removed. The committee expects, however, that the public will continue to conserve on lighting to a reasonable extent in the future.

There has been no change at present and there is little likelihood of any in the coming months. In the hard coal situation in this city, and it will be necessary for consumers to conserve to their utmost during the coming weeks in order that everyone may receive their two-thirds allotment.

Food Committee
Warren P. Riordan, of the local food administration requests that all dealers and grocers who have in their possession any unused sugar restriction cards for the month of November will return them to 119 Merrimack street as soon as possible, in order to accelerate the work of issuing the new cards for the month of December. Mr. Riordan also wishes to have all grocers send in the sugar coupons for the present month which they have already honored.

EXCHANGE SOLDIERS' FRENCH MONEY FOR AMERICAN CASH

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Quartermasters at all base ports have been instructed by the quartermaster general to exchange soldiers' French money for American before the troops sail. American money has been secured from the United States and from French banks and the exchange will be at the United States treasury's current rate.

CHILI AND PERU NEAR RUPTURE —CONSULS RECALLED

LIMA, Peru, Monday, Nov. 25.—The Peruvian government has not received official despatches from its consular representatives in Chili for 48 hours, although it has recalled its consuls from Chile. The newspapers here have received no news from their correspondents in Chile and it is believed that a strict cable censorship is in force at all Chilean ports.

Peruvian consuls in Chile have been ordered to return by the first steamer. The Peruvian steamer Urubamba, now at Valparaiso, has been ordered to bring to Callao all Peruvians desiring to leave Chile.

The reported cancellation by the Peruvian government of all the exequaturs of Chilean consuls in Peru is incorrect.

Lima is quiet.

Peru's Position

The Peruvian minister of foreign affairs has made the following statement:

"After the extraordinary outrages at Iquique Saturday, during which the property of several Peruvians was sacked, Chilean crowds on Sunday attacked the Peruvian consul at Iquique, Senor L. Hosa, while he was on his way to the mayor to protest against the riots.

"He was carried by force aboard a small steamer anchored in the port. The authorities and the police consented to the outrage and notified the consul that they would not permit him to disembark.

HIS WORK APPRECIATED

Henry Bracewell Rendered Valuable Assistance During Recent Influenza Epidemic

The following letter is of interest here because it is addressed to a former Lowell boy, Henry Bracewell, son of Mr. John Bracewell of Andover street: The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Executive Department, State House, Boston, Nov. 7, 1918.

Mr. Henry Bracewell,

19 Williams St., Worcester, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I wish to express to you on behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and personally, sincere appreciation for your help in combating the epidemic of influenza. It was a distinctive and substantial contribution to the country, and fully as important as work upon the field of battle. Your endeavor was splendidly carried out and your devotion an honor to our national life.

The help you rendered is something that will not soon be forgotten by Massachusetts. Please accept my sincere hopes for your future success.

Sincerely yours,
SAMUEL W. McCALL.

Was in Draft

Henry Bracewell was in the draft of June 5th, 1917, he being 21 in May, 1917, but owing to his weight, 185 pounds, he was put in the special and limited service as a nurse, but up to the time of the epidemic of influenza he had not been called.

He trained at the Worcester State hospital and in June, 1918, took the state board examination for a registered nurse and passed a successful examination. He registered at the Worcester registry Sept. 10, 1918, and was sent to Worcester academy, where 60 students were stricken with influenza and pneumonia. After their recovery he went to Camp Durell, Barrington, Mass., where five hundred soldiers had influenza and pneumonia. He also took care of three Worcester physical classes who were stricken with influenza. His father, John Bracewell, is the well known overseer of the Schell's Worcester mills, North Chelmsford.

NINE HOUR DAY FOR N. Y.

N. H. & H. SHOPMEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.—Notices have been posted in the local railroad shops of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., announcing that a nine hour day for the mechanical shopmen of the system will be inaugurated today. The men have been working 10 hours. The order affects about 1000 men here and nearly 3000 in the entire system.

The notice also states that an eight hour day for the shopmen will be put into effect on Dec. 9. It is understood there will be no overtime work except in emergencies. The notices bear the signature of W. G. McAdoo, director-general of railroads.

FOR AMERICAN CONTROL

Movement for U. S. Supervision of Police, Finance, Education, Etc., in Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, Monday, Nov. 25. (By the Associated Press).—American control of the Turkish gendarmerie and finances is being urged by a group of nine newspapers—seven Turkish and two French—in Constantinople. The group also advocates American supervision of the educational system and the separation of church and state. A deputation will request permission to present the program to President Wilson during his visit to Paris. The program will be announced this week.

CONFERENCE TODAY ON ABILITY OF CONTINUING WAR GARDEN WORK HERE

Charles T. Upton, chairman of the Lowell war gardens committee; Fred D. Briggs, secretary and treasurer of the Middlesex county farm bureau, and A. R. Jenks, horticultural agent for the bureau, held a conference with Mayor Thompson this morning in regard to continuing garden work in Lowell next summer even though the war has ended.

The gardens were a complete success this summer and it is felt by the men before mentioned that they might profitably be continued as community gardens with the school children playing a large part in their development.

To accentuate interest in the work it was stated that the state would appropriate two-thirds of the money necessary for the proper conduct of the work, providing the city did its share and the work was done through the schools. The three men will visit Mayor Thompson at a later date with complete data as to how the city government should act to secure the money from the state.

BIG MILITARY CARNIVAL ON AT CAMP DEVENS—36TH INFANTRY

WINNER YESTERDAY

CAMP DEVENS, Nov. 26.—Out on the rifle range the ground at the rear of the butts is pitted with shell holes, small trees and bushes lie uprooted and splintered, and a considerable area is covered with shattered targets and bits of mutilated toy balloons. In the camp proper are some 20,000 hoarse, tired, happy soldiers, and in various parts of New England are more tired people who experienced thrills yesterday that they never experienced before.

The first day of the biggest military carnival ever held in New England is over, and in almost every detail it exceeded expectations. The public had shown and explained to the workings of about every type of machine gun and automatic rifle in existence. They saw these same guns go into action. Squads of men hurled hand grenades over one of the butts on the rifle range until the air was filled with flying earth, stones and timber and the detonations could be heard for miles around.

The carnival opened with a rifle competition between teams of five men each from all the platoons of each of the infantry regiments. Some line shooting gave the event to the 36th Infantry. Co. K of the 34th Infantry had the highest score of any company team, however.

Then followed the demonstration of the most modern weapons of war. This demonstration was not competitive but the spirit of rivalry existed between the crews of specialists just the same. First came the hand and rifle grenades, and a good idea of the frightful havoc wrought by these weapons was given. Then came the automatic rifles, Lewis Brownings and the French Chauchats all being used. Lines of toy balloons were demolished by comparatively few shot-bursts from these guns, a high tribute to the marksmanship of the men of the Plymouth division.

Brownings in Action

But what pleased the spectators more than anything else was the finale. More than a dozen heavy Browning water-cooled machine guns went into action at once. The racket was terrific and several hundred yards away a solid cloud of dust obscured the targets the gunners were firing at as they traversed back and forth. That was the last the spectators saw of the targets, for when the firing ceased and the dust blew away there was no more in evidence. Hardly had the chatter of the machine guns ceased when the air was split by an explosion from a one-pounded cannon, one of the most effective means of wiping out the once famous German machine gun nests.
